

Census and Genealogies from Coldspring [A Seneca Community, Allegany Territory, 1933]

Transcribed by Randy A. John, 2017

A symbol for an illegible character or characters are in a bracket (?). If the illegible character or characters are already in parentheses, the symbol used is [?].

A (?) or [?] is also used to indicate uncertainty in accuracy.

Linguistic special characters are in { }'s and []'s, see the list below:

{a} = a with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

ǰ

{ε} = ε with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

ε

{o} = o with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

o

{i} = i with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

i

{j} = j with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

j

{u} = u with what may be a curly tail phonetic symbol or a voiceless palatal fricative)

u

Symbols:

? = a glottal stop

[remember ? with parentheses or brackets does not represent a glottal stop]

dr = daughter

Note: Individuals have multiple listings and transcriptions appear to be spelled differently occasionally for the same person.

Note II: As always with any document, be aware there is the possibility of errors. There could be errors in the original census and/or in the transcription.
